The Truss Supply Chain Mastery course, which I was fortunate to attend through a sponsorship from Truss Ugavi opened my eyes to the excitement and impact a supply chain career can offer. Working through simulations, I experienced the fast-paced, unpredictable nature of today's business world and learned to navigate each stage of the value chain. This hands-on experience helped me identify where my strengths could add real value, and it highlighted how essential supply chain management is in building resilient businesses, especially during tough times.

To build on this foundation, I took further training with VCARE Academy, which gave me a broader perspective on the field. This course emphasized the importance of tackling disruptions head-on and developing sustainable practices while highlighting the key pillars of a successful supply chain: people, processes, information, data, finance, and sustainability. Altogether, these experiences gave me the confidence and insight to keep growing as a future leader in supply chain management.

I am proud to have completed the Certified Supply Chain Leader program with Vcare on June 1, 2024. The certification was instrumental in advancing my knowledge and skills in essential areas such as Demand Driven Material Requirements Planning, Supply Chain Risk Management, and Logistics and Distribution Network Planning. The program's focus on sustainability, supply chain digitalization, and practical strategies for tackling today's challenges gave me a well-rounded, actionable understanding of the industry.

Additionally, I am honored to have been appointed as a certified trainer for this program under Vcare's learning partner, Truss Ugavi. This role enables me to guide and support other supply chain professionals in mastering innovative and impactful strategies that drive operational excellence
